Dear Members of St. Joseph's Parish,

Today we celebrate Mother's Day, and we ask God's blessing on all our mothers, who are living, and to those who are deceased, eternal peace.

The following reflection was written by a young mother, back in 1967.

"I had the meanest mother in the whole world. While other kids ate candy for breakfast, I had to have cereal, eggs or toast. When others had cokes and candy for lunch, I had to eat a sandwich. As you can guess, my supper was different than the other kids' also. But at least, I wasn't alone in my sufferings. My sister and two brothers had the same mean mother as I did.

We had to wear clean clothes and take a bath. The other kids always wore their clothes for days. We reached the height of insults because she made our clothes herself, just to save money. Why, oh why, did we have to have a mother who made us feel different from our friends? The worst is yet to come. We had to be in bed by nine each night and up at eight the next morning. We couldn't sleep till noon like our friends. So while they slept - my mother actually had the nerve to break the child-labor law. She made us work. We had to wash dishes, make beds, learn to cook and all sorts of cruel things. I believe she laid awake at night thinking up mean things to do to us. She always insisted upon us telling the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, even if it killed us - and it nearly did. By the time we were teenagers, she was much wiser, and our life became more unbearable.

None of this tooting the horn of a car for us to come running. She embarrassed us to no end by making our dates and friends come to the door to get us. While my friends were dating at the mature age of 12 and 13, my old fashioned mother refused to let me date until the age of 15 and 16. Fifteen, that is, if you dated only to go to a school function. And that was maybe twice a year.

Through the years, things didn't improve a bit. We could not lie in bed "sick" like our friends did, and miss school. Our marks in school had to be up to par. Our friends' report cards had beautiful colors on them, black for passing, red for failing. My mother being as different as she was, would settle for nothing less than ugly black marks. Out of four children, a couple of us attained some higher education. None of us have even been arrested, divorced or beaten his mate. Each of my brothers served his time in the service of this country. And whom do we have to blame for the terrible way we turned out? You're right, our mean mother. Look at the things we missed We never got to march in a protest parade, nor to take part in a riot, burn draft cards, and a million other things our friends did. She forced us to grow up into God-fearing, educated, honest adults. Using this as a background, I am trying to raise my three children. I stand a little taller and I am filled with pride when my children call me mean. Because, you see, I thank God for giving me the meanest mother in the whole world." May all our mothers, on this day, know our love and respect for them.

God bless, Father Dan

2nd Collection
Church in Latin America

In 2010, the Church in Latin America was particularly strained. Earthquakes in both Chile and Haiti caused unprecedented damage to both physical structures and the already fragile economic state of the Church and its parishioners. The region's Church is facing long years of recovery that will place an extra burden on the annual Collection. In addition, there is an increased need to support seminaries and house of formation, something that will help ensure a new generation of priests, sisters, and lay leaders.

This Collection supports a vibrant Church that cannot fully support itself and is challenged by emigration and the alarming pace at which parishioners are being drawn to other faiths.

Since 1966, the annual collection for the Church in Latin America has stood as a tangible demonstration of solidarity within the Catholic church across the hemisphere. The proceeds of the collection continue to provide opportunities to our brothers and sisters in Latin America who, while lacking financial resources, are rich in faith and love for Our Lord Jesus Christ.

Please Help Support our Churches in Latin America
